The final draft is due _________________.

Option 1: Narrative Writing

Write a scene for the book in which the little prince returns to his star and meets his flower. Create a similar dialogue and content that would be fitting with the rest of the story. What would the little prince say to his little flower? What would she say in return? Word Count: 300-800

To Earn a Four for Narrative Writing: Create Art

Draw and color a picture to go with your story. Again, it must be similar in style to the artwork in the story. This will be mounted on colored poster board and displayed with your story.

Option 2: Journalistic Style Writing

Summarize the book as if it were a news story. Start with a lede, and answer the questions who, what, where, when, why, and how. Begin the news story with the most important events, and end with the least important. Some events from the book might not be included, and other events may be out of order. But that's ok! This is how news stories are written. Word Count: 300-500

To Earn a 4 for Journalistic Style Writing: Create a Newsletter

Using Microsoft Word or Publisher, create a one page newsletter. See template in Student Share folder. The newsletter must include the following:

1. A creative title
2. A headline
3. A byline
4. Image or icon
5. A sideline – this could include a list of “all the things you should pack for interstellar exploration,” “advice for when you meet grown-ups,” “the fox in his natural habitat,” or any creative idea that you can come up with.

   Optional: An ad – this, of course, should be fake! This could be an ad for “Out of This World Dry Cleaning” with a motto like “We make your clothes sparkle like stars!” Don’t use my ideas! Think of your own.

   Optional: A quote.
